

WE NOMINATE

George Adams Graham, nationally recognized specialist in the spheres of public administration and American government, whose newly published work—"Morality in American Politirs"—is a major contribution to the layman's understanding of the grievous national problem that may well hold the key to the 1952 Presidential Election. Appearing at a most opportune moment, just as "the General" and "the Governor" are grabbing up their cudgels in all seriousness, this penetrating analysis of "morals and politics" represents the kind of distinguished public service which can be rendered by the trained, conscientious teacher-scholar.

In a decade that has fostered the renaissance of old-fashloned mudslinging and muckraking, it is re-* assuring to find a readable authority who is seeking neither a scapegoat nor a panacea and is convinced much can be done and many people can help." And Graham's latest book is not a monument to years of research in governmental and library archives, for it is in part a by-product of his uncompleted study of "America's Capacity to Govern," a Rockefeller Foundation project, and his close association with the "Douglas Committee", the U. S. Senate's "Ethics Subcommittee."

Graham, 47 years old, a member of Princeton University's Department of Politics since 1930, has combined his academic career with diverse activities in the public, interest. On leave from Princeton from early in 1942 until after V-J Day, Graham held forth with the U. S. Bureau of the Budget, first as an administrative consultant and later as chief of various Bureau subdivisions. In 1948 he headed up one of the Hoover Commission "Task Forces" and later directed an investigation of eight regulatory agencies in Connecticut.

A native of Cambridge, N. Y. and a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Monmouth (Illinois) College, Graham is also the author of "Education for Public Administration," a volume that helped crystallize interest in streamlining governmental personnel procedures. Here on his home campus he has played leading roles in the development of two pioneering ventures—the Wilson Fellowship Program for recruiting profession and the Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, which four years ago launched a plan designed to give broad preparation for executive careers in government and business.

For emphasizing that, although the moral problem of American politics is colossal, there are no grounds for defeatism and despair; for believing that the response to a genuine and straightforward appeal to American idealism would perform wonders for government; for focussing attention on the moral obligations of the average man as well as on those of the individual in public life; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

Numbers Game, Is "A Cask of Amontilado" a book or something to drink? Actually, it could be both—and a couple of business firms in Princeton are pretty sure

When telephone numbers were scaled upwards to give each one five digits. The University Press became 1-1001. At the same time. Cousins Company went all the way from 1 to 1-0001. The two are quite similar, as those who handle incoming calls for books at Cousins or orders for liquor at the University Press can tell you.

Start of a New Year. In a college town, Labor Day is more like New Year's Day than January 1. The year begins in September and ends in June, with the intervening months a quiet, pleasant, alheit sometimes rather humid interval.

So, this week a "new year" had come to Princetoo. A corner had been turned, and the road ahead looked to be full of interesting de-velopments and worthwhile events.

Among the most intriguing, of course, would be the political races at all levels in one of the most important elections the nation has ever known. Non-partisan drives to register as many Princetonians as possible had already started; next would come the campaigning, some of it touching Princeton directly, virtually all of it available by radio and television.

The Community Chest was about to launch a drive for $117,400, highest goal in its 14-year history. The finest hospital available to many communities this size would be ready for Princeton when the new wing opened this fall. In the center of town, transformation of sweeping nature was gradually taking shape with completion of the $600,000, 50-unit housing project near John and Clay Streets

Among other developments to be watched with interest was the future of the Lambert estate, which may go on the market again this fall if the Westminster Choir College follows the still-unconfirmed report that it will abandon plans for transforming the 100-acre tract into its campus. Progress on the Princeton Shopping Centur, scheduled to open next March, will be in the public eye, as will the campaign of the League of Women Voters to inform the public on the need for municipal consolidation between Princeton borough and township.

Insurance Rates Up. Dividing New Jersey into 20 different territories, the National Board of Casualty Underwriters has abnounced a set of higher rates for outomobile liability insurance that are effective immediately. They are because on the large range of the control of the based on the loss record for each part of the stale, with Princeton and most neor-by communities in an area where the rates remain relatively low.

For example, hasic coverage for a passenger car (up to $5,000 for bodily injury to one person, $10,-000 for injury to more than person in one accident and $5,000 for property damage) increase here from $33 to $35, But in Trenton, the same policy goes from $41 to $48, while in some northern sections of the state, the boost is from $81 to $95. Continued careful driving by motorists here obviously will pay actual cash dividends,

-Meanwhile, Labor Day weekend was marked by 17 traffic deaths in New Jersey, live more than had been estimated for the three-day period. The total for the year is now in excess of 500; nationally, it is more than 30,000, so that once again Americans are killing each other off at home far more elliciently than the enemy is able to in Korea.

The weekend also brought more than three inches of rain, nearly the full quota for a month. Some sizeable tree branches were blown down, but storm damage was negligible compared to elsewhere in the state, where 40,000 power fail-ures were reported and many television aerials were casualties.

An appeal was made to the Volunteer Ambulance Unit to bring volunteer Ambulance Unit to bring her to Princeton, where she has many friends. THE PLAYHOUSE

The Big Sky (Thurs.-Sat.) is a distinguished filming of a story of the development of the West. Restraint marks the telling of a powerful tale of adventurers ascending to the upper reaches of the Missouri River to trade for beaver furs with the Indians. Kirk Douglas is the only top star assigned to the film and he contributes a top-flight performance, as do the others in the east. Overall excellence includes realistic action, magnificent natural settings and a screenplay marked by salty, direct dialogue and understanding. Typed as "mature but good for children" by the Movie Committee of the Council of Community Services.

Community Services.

Les Miserables (Sun.-Tues.) is the ninth screen version of Victor Hugo's classic story of manhunt and struggle for justice. Following the story fairly closely, the filming loses the passionate sweep of the events. While generally slow-moving, it is enhanced by the performances of Robert Newton as Javert and Michael Rennie as Jean Valjean. Termed "mature for very young but very worthwhile for more mature children" by the Movie Committee of the Council of Community Services. What Price Glory (Wed.-Sat.) is what Price Glory (Wed.-Sat.) Is a new film version of one of the all-time greats of the American stage. Technicolor, songs and comedy routines have been liberally added with some harm to the story's vitality and grim view of war. James Cagney plays Capt. Flagg and Dan Dailey portrays Sgt. Quirt, two roof-raising Marines perpetually at ndds and mostly over a French innkeeper's daughter (Corinne Calvet).

THE GAROEN

Son of Ali Baba (Fri.-Sat.) finds gay romance and adventure abounding in old Persia. Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie romp through a light-hearted story packed with nonsense, swordplay and pretty girls. A fairy tale concoction which doesn't take itself too serlously, Technicolor.

Glory Alley (Mon.-Tues.) is an interesting film which includes fine performances, New Orleans music and moods, and an unbelievably scrambled plot. Its main attractions are the sensuous dancing of Leslie Caron and the work of Louis Armstrong, with and without trumpet. The story is loosely huilt around Ralph Meeker as a boxer who runs out on his big fight and then becomes a war hero.

Washington Story (Wed.-Thurs.) is a relatively hard-hitting film concerned with the efforts of a Congressman to vote correctly on a major issue in the face of probable defeat at the polls as a result. Washington newsmen make the task more difficult, but the American way wins without a display of sentimental flag-waving. Van Johnson, Patricia Neal, Louis Calhern and Sidney Blackmer are excellent in the leads.

The Duel at Silver Creek (Fri.-Sat.) is paced to please the action fans. A Western of familiar framework (marshalls on the trail of outlaw claim jumpers), the film builds rapidly to the climatic duel of the title. Audie Murphy, Faith Domergue and Stephen McNnlly are the stars. Lots of outdoor Technicolor photography.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

An Evening with Beatrice Lillie will be the final attraction of the season at the Playhouse in New Hope, opening Monday for six evening performances and Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Fortunately many Princetonians saw the delightful English comedienne when she appeared at McCarter Thentre carlier in the summer, since only a limited amount of standing room is available for her Bucks County performances.

Reginald Gardiner is featured with Miss Lillie and his monologues and pantomines are the highpoints of the first act. The second act is given over to Miss Lillie's songs and antics. Most of her material is drawn from the productions which have made her famous since she first appeared on the American scene in Charlot's Revue, plus several new sketches and songs.

Theatre by Somerset Maugham will finish up this week with evening performances and a Saturday matiner. Kay Francis heads the cast of the worldly, literate comedy concerned with the marital situation of a famous husband-and-wife acting team. Tickets still available.

MUSIC CIRCUS

Where's Charley will run through Sunday, September 14, under the hig top at the Lambertville Music Clicus. A hit on Brondway with the magical Ray Bolger and Allyn Me-Lerie, the musical is another version of the 1892 play "Charley's Aunt." Book is hy George Ahbott and music and lyrics by Frank Loesser. Tim Herbert and Evelyn Ward have the leads at Lambert-ville.

In addition to the four straight defeats, a series of incidents plagued Hickman in the Princeton rivalry. The first time he came up against the Tigers—in the defeats of the first time he came up against the Tigers—in the hold of the first time he came up against the Tigers—in the first time he was uperior material.

That year, and again in 1949, he took the Saturday preceding the game off to scoult the Orange and Black personally. Each time he was gone, his team lost—once to Brown, nonce to Dastmouth.

For the Gornal beard was a series of the property of the princeton game. The emphasis placed on his efforts to win it was thus tremendously heightened; scores of 47-12 and 27-0 against him mode it look as if the extra week to prepare for the Tigers had been almost totally devoid of accomplishment.

In 1948 and 1949, the one-time professional wrestler came up with an orthodox attack and lost in orthodox fashion by respective margins of six and eight points. Two years ago, he abandoned all hope of scoring through the tough Tiger line and unveiled an A formation passing game that had some sound points, borrowed from the New York Claints, and a cauple of other professional properties of the professional In 1948 and 1949, the one-ti

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

It was after this performance that the unquenchable Hickman humor produced the remark that "My line really was rugged in the Princeton game—my backs couldn't go through it at all."

It would be interesting to know why the announcement of his resignation did not come until a new season is merely a matter of weeks away. His temporary replacement by Jordan Olivar, who says himself that he is merely a fill-in, leaves the Blue with a tremendously difficult assignment for its first five or six games. The former Villanova coach was added to the staff only last March and having had no spring practice sessions, doesn't even know most of his squad by name. Chances are, however, that he'll have made enough progress by mid-November to give Princeton a full share of competition, Hickman, incidentally, wasn't Yale's choice to replace the departed Howie Odell at the end of the 1947 season. Lou Little was the pick, but General Eisenhower took over as president at Columbia about that time and talked Little into staying at Morningside Heights. Yale is the poorer in its football fortunes for this turn of events, hecause the difference between the two coaches is largely that Little, win, lose or draw, has an established reputation for getting the most out of his material.

Post Pickings. Frank McPhee is picked on the pre-season all-American team in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The able Princeton captain gives promise of being the best player in the East this season and one of the top dozen in the nation.

In the national ranking of college teams, the Post picks Princeton 16th and Pennsylvania 18th, then promptly names the Quakers to win the Ivy League title. That's a bit tough to follow.

Playoffs Underway. Winning three times in four days, the Phantoms closed fast in the American Softball League to finish in first place by two games. They were 18-7 to the Cenerinos 16-9, with the Nassau Johnnies, Oldis Movers and Sportsmen's Club all winding up at 12-13 in a three-way tie for third.

18-7 to the Cenerinos 16-9, with the Nassau Johnnies, Oldis Movers and Sportsmen's Club all winding up at 12-13 in a three-way tie for third. Oldis Movers drew the bye in this play-off and the Sportsmen were scheduled to meet the Nassau Johnnies. When the third and fourth-place teams had been determined, playoffs for the title would begin—probably Monday.

The two ETS entries lost their opening games last week as play-offs started in the National League. Nassau Social Club trounced ETS 2 by a 15-4 margin, with RCA defeating ETS 1, 17-6. Next evening, Dress Un Your Scholar. There are over 26,000,000 children elbowing each other into school this year, and, as one despairing father said, they all need clothes. We found some cotton dresses at The Little Clothes Line, 5 Palmer Square West, that won't make you feel as though you were buying clothes for the 26,000,000.

Prices are $5.95 and $7.95, mostly, with very few for $10.95. Plaids, of course- every tartan in the book and dozens Scotland never dreamed of, Stripes, too. We saw one with stripes going around instead of up and down (good if your 12-year-old is bean-poley). Another was striped in charcoal and white with a charcoal waist, and didn't it look grown

Collars are mostly white, mostly round, even for the tens and twelves. Some are scalloped, for variety, and one has red polka dots all over it. No collar at all on a sedate grey cotton that would make your child into a little Priscilla Olden: it has a wide, Pilgrimtype yoke, grey as the dress with touches of white,

Assuming that winter comes, she'll need a good warm coat, and talk ahout warm! How about chinthis about warm! How about chincilla wool lined with corduroy (French blue wool, beige corduroy; navy with red. What's French blue? A strong, light blue.)

Leggings to match, if you want them. And this red and brown check—you never saw anything so wintry. It's water repellent with a wintry. It's water repellent with a sheared collar and cuffs and a lin-ing of alpaca.

One new feature about this coat is the pull-a-thread angle. You buy the coat to lit, then next year or so, you just pull a thread in the sleeve lining, press the sleeve down, and the cont covers those wrists that were beginning to hang out.

Lining edge is already bound and turned up, you see, so no rehemming is needed. These coats are about $35.

We saw some hoys' water repellent jackets in bright red — a color hard to find for bigger boys. These go up to size 12 and they come with or without sheared collars. Price is only $12.95 and that heats some we've seen in the ads of New York stores.

Of course, there are fall clothes for citizens who won't see the inside of a school for several years. A size-two cotton, for example, done in royal purple, with an orchid waist, and tidy puff sleeves. You'll take that one home even if you haven't got a size two.

On your way out, pick up a real clothes line; an eight-foot plastic braid. You insert the garment between strands of the braid, pull it taut, and the dress, or whatever, bathroom drying, Costs 95 cents.

Now for the Boys. Lots of color and zip in the younger men's rlothes they have at the Junior Shop, 14 Chambers, Bright red, navy or maroon trimmed in white -Continued on Page 13
